During the first half of 1949, the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) has been concerned over the development of factionalism in its ranks. To guard against this possibility, the following slogans have been posted en bloc in offices and other meeting places where CCP members gather:

- Down with association based on previous acquaintanceship (反對拉攏主義)。*
- Down with association based on common educational background (反對教條主義)。*
- Down with association based on common geographical origins (反對地域主義)。*
- Down with association based on common past experiences (反對經驗主義)。*

Comment. This probably may be interpreted as meaning that CCP members should not adhere to the policy of acquaintanceship or friendship in the expeditious handling or carrying out of CCP matters; that members should not follow the practice of handling CCP affairs through or with other persons of a similar educational, social, or geographical background; and that members should not allow common past experiences with others to play any part in the handling of CCP affairs.
